EXPLANATION.

A slight error occurs in the History of Placerville, which was not discovered until after the work was in the binders' hands. The soubriquet of "Hangtown" was applied to Placerville not from the hanging of "Irish Dick," in 1850, but from the summary execution of the two Frenchmen and the Spaniard, who were hung in 1849, and not in 1854, as stated on page 11. No hanging, by a mob, has occurred here since 1850.

THE PUBLISHERS present this volume to their patrons, confident that it will form a valuable historical contribution, an efficient advertising medium, and a complete representative of the business and permanent population of PLACERVILLE, Upper Placerville, El Dorado, Georgetown and Coloma.

It is, of course, impossible to attain entire accuracy in a work of this description; but, as far as laborious and careful effort can accomplish such a result, they believe it has been achieved.

As the first Directory ever published in El Dorado County, this work will possess a peculiar interest.

FOR THE COUNTING-HOUSE AND BUSINESS MAN.

HISTORY OF PLACERVILLE.

THE City of Placerville, the county seat of El Dorado County, California, is situated on the banks of Hangtown Creek, in a small valley in the Sierra Nevada mountains, in latitude $38^{\circ} 43' 40''$ North, and longitude $120^{\circ} 47'$ West. Its altitude is 1,175 feet above the level of the sea, notwithstanding which it is never very cold in Winter, and snow seldom rests on the ground more than a day or two, as the city is protected from cold winds by the surrounding hills; these hills, however, tend to make the place very hot in midsummer, the thermometer sometimes indicating a temperature as high as 100 to 106° Fahrenheit, in the shade. Its topography secures it from much danger by floods. During the first month of the present year, a month more inclement and stormy than ever before known, the barometer was from 27:51 to 20:30 inches. The average height for the month, 27:99 inches; temperature, at the same time, 46° . The amount of rain for the season was as follows: For the month of November, 8:15 inches; December, 21:05 inches; January, 34 inches—making, in all, 63:2 inches of rain during the three months named.

“Hangtown Creek,” so famous throughout the State from its association with valuable gold mining and auriferous bed, derives its name from the early name of Placerville, through which it runs, and divides, as the Tiber does Rome. It is not an inconsiderable stream, especially in the rainy season. During the remarkable season just passed, it expanded to the magnitude of a river, and, by its sudden and temporary importance, caused some damage, but created no general alarm.

It soon subsided, however, into its proper channel, and will, until next season, continue to grow less each day. It has its source at the foot of Smith's Flat, about two miles East of the city, and is fed on its way by streams from Oregon, Cedar and other ravines adjacent to town. It loses itself in Weber Creek, about a mile and a-half West of the city: Weber Creek runs into the South Fork of the American River, which, in turn, unites with the Sacramento River.

The soubriquet of "Hangtown," by which Placerville was at one time only known, and which is now not unfrequently applied to it, had its origin in the hanging, by a mob, in October, 1850, of a desperado named Richard Crone, but known to the community by the nom de plume of "Irish Dick." The fellow was but a boy, hardly more than twenty-one years of age, and came across the Plains, from St. Louis, in one of the very first trains, in the capacity of a cook. He was of small stature, and more noticeable because of his outré attire, a wide and peculiar mouth, and large protruding teeth. He took to gambling as a profession, and showed, by his skill and pluck, that he was not unsuited for a business which, especially at that time, was a most hazardous calling. Like his fellows, he never went unarmed, and, like them, would not hesitate to use his weapons when he deemed it would aid his cause to do so. He soon made himself well known throughout the camps now included in El Dorado county, but honored "Hangtown" most generally with his presence. One night, while in the El Dorado Saloon (where now stands the Cary House), he stabbed, and almost instantly killed, an emigrant just arrived, mistaking him, it was said, for some one else whom he designed murdering, for some fancied offense. The murdered man had a brother in town, who resolved that "Irish Dick" should die. In this determination the town concurred. Dick was taken from the place where the officers of the law had stationed him, into the main street, and tried by a jury of citizens, in the presence of excited thousands, who had collected together from the surrounding country. The verdict was "guilty," and so soon as it was pronounced, the condemned was pushed from the temporary platform whereon he and the sheriff and extemporized court had sat, and hurried along with the crowd, towards the Plaza, where preparations were made for his execution. At this point the mob were told that a sick man was in a house near by, and that the uproar seriously troubled him. The crowd, at once, returned down Main street, and up to what is now Coloma street, to a large oak, near where is now the Presbyterian parsonage. Meanwhile, Sheriff "Bill" Rogers, and Alex. Hunter and John Clark, constables of the town, fought desperately for the possession of the prisoner, but, against the determined multitude, they were powerless. Throughout this terrible ordeal, "Dick," with a physical courage truly wonderful, conducted himself with the utmost coolness. When placed under the tree, with the rope around his neck, he begged the privilege of climbing upon the tree, and leaping from the fatal branch. But this was denied him, and he was jerked up by strong and willing hands, and was soon a dangling corpse.

The next and last fatal exercise of power by Judge Lynch was in 1854, when two Frenchmen and a Spaniard were hung by a mob, to an oak tree, at the corner of Main and Coloma streets, the stump of which is now covered by the store of Bye & Stewart. The victims had been arrested for highway robbery, on the Georgetown road. While being tried by a jury of citizens for this offence, and while it was doubtful what penalty should be inflicted on them, an officer from one of the lower counties arrived, in search of the perpetrators of a horrible murder in his section. On seeing the men being tried here for robbery, he at once recognized two of them as the murderers for whom he sought, and made the fact known. This, at once, settled their fate. Death was decreed as their verdict, and the sentence was carried out immediately, at the place and in the manner mentioned. Since that time Judge Lynch has been deposed (let us hope forever) in this region, nor has any one suffered the death penalty, except two Indians, for the murder of an Irishman named Gay, in 1861.

But other killing was done in Placerville, as elsewhere throughout the State, in those early and reckless times, when men had only in view the procurement of gold, which they squandered with more ease than they obtained it, and when established law had not yet assumed its sway. Among the offences of this nature, one is just now called to our recollection, from the fact that its author, only a few days since, met with a violent death, in Virginia City, at the hands of a constable named Williams, towards whom he cherished a demoniac hatred, and against whose life he had made threats. We allude to Bill Brown, who, in 1854, without provocation, entered a saloon on Main street, near Coloma, and so stabbed the barkeeper in the abdomen that his bowels protruded, and the poor fellow almost immediately died. The indignation was great; and, had it not been for the vigilance and determination of the authorities, Brown would have received summary and immediate punishment. Of his guilt there was not a shadow of doubt, but his counsel obtained postponement, and finally a change of venue, and when, at last, the culprit was brought to trial, the most important witnesses were found to have left the country, and could not be found. Enough was legally made against him to warrant his being sent to the State Prison for three years. After the expiration of his sentence he crossed the mountains to Washoe, where he took the life of a man called "Frenchy," but for this he was not punished, it appearing that the act was somewhat justifiable, and that the loss of "Frenchy" was not a public calamity. And now Brown, himself, is dead—a victim to that lawless violence of which he was a prominent disciple.

Like nearly all towns in California, Placerville has not been exempt from the ravages of the fire-fiend. From this cause it suffered terribly in 1856. On the fifteenth of April, in that year, the lower portion was laid in ruins by fire, which broke out in Sacramento street, reducing to poverty, in the course of a few hours, many who had before been rich. The victims were nearly all hotel keepers, and included W. M. Cary, now the popular and successful host of the Cary House, then of the Placer Hotel. But, on the sixth of July, of the same year, the town was completely laid in ashes by fire—scarcely a house was saved, and lives were lost. And nothing better displays the recuperative resources of the place than that Placerville rose again, Phoenix-like, the brighter from its ashes, and is still rising in extent, population, wealth, importance and stability, and having for its motto "Excelsior!"

Placerville was first incorporated as a city in the year 1853. It now contains a population of about 5,000 souls, and is steadily on the increase. A great impetus was given to its growth and business by the rich mineral discoveries in Nevada Territory, most of the travel to and from Virginia City passing through Placerville. A railroad to connect the city with the Sacramento Valley Railroad, thirty miles distant, has been projected and surveyed, and will probably be commenced in a few months. One has also been projected to tide-water on the San Joaquin river, and one across the mountains through Johnson's Pass to Nevada Territory, there to connect with the great Atlantic and Pacific Railroad.

There are over two hundred business houses, some doing a large jobbing trade. There are several blocks of fire-proof brick buildings. Two fire-proof lava front engine houses, one of which (Neptune) contains a fine library, of over five hundred volumes. The Court House, Churches, Odd Fellows' and Masons' Halls, Theater, etc., are all handsome and substantial edifices.

* There is one daily and three weekly newspapers now published in Placerville. A large iron foundry, soap factory, carriage factory, blacksmith, wheelwright and other shops give employment to many mechanics.

The town of Upper Placerville, about one-fourth of a mile distant is a flourishing suburb, not at present included in the city limits. It has no peculiar history distinct from Placerville, and, with the progress of population, will eventually become a part of it.

SCOVILL'S
SARSAPARILLA AND STILLINGIA!
Or, BLOOD AND LIVER SYRUP.

It is highly recommended by Physicians to cure the following diseases, having their origin in a disordered state of the blood: Scrofula, Tetter or Salt Rheum, Seald Head, Canker, Ulcerations and Enlargement of the Joints, Cancerous Tumors, Erysipelas, King's Evil, St. Anthony's Fire, White Swellings, Obstinate Eruptions, Pimples on the Face, Rheumatism, Blotches, Pustules, Dyspepsia, etc.; Syphilitic and Mercurial Affections are cured; Chlorosis or Obstructions in Females, Lueorrhœa or Whites, are relieved by this medicine.

The medical properties of Sarsaparilla in conjunction with Stillingia, are well known by all medical men to be the best compound yet discovered to cleanse and purify the blood, and eradicate all humors from the system. We have given the recipe to most Physicians in the country, that they may know what they are using; and will continue to send it by mail to those desirous of knowing the ingredients entering into its composition, that they may prescribe it in their practice.

Thousands who have used the Stillingia and Sarsaparilla will testify to its remarkable effect in removing all impurities from their blood, giving tone and vigor to the whole human frame, and restoring a healthy action to all the functions of the body. As a Spring remedy, to purify and cleanse the blood, leaving it free from all humors and impurities, we assert, with confidence, there is no better remedy. Sold by all Druggists, and by

PART III.

EL DORADO.

HISTORY OF EL DORADO.

THE Town of El Dorado, formerly Old Mud Springs, was one of the first settled in the County, having been a mining camp as early as 1849-'50. It is situated on the public road leading from Placerville to Sacramento, about five miles westerly from the former city, and has at present a population of about twelve hundred. The old town took its name from springs (mud springs) near the present town. Like all other towns in mining districts, it owed its existence and growth to the rich mines in its vicinity, which consisted in extensive placers and a great number of gold-bearing quartz lodes, which have been generally worked since 1850-'51. Many ravines, gulches and creeks are tributary to the town, which have afforded ample pay for thousands of miners—principally, and among them, Empire Ravine, Dead Man's Hollow, Loafers' Hollow, Log Town Creek, Matheney's Creek, Slate and Dry Creeks.

One of the first settlers of the place was James Thomas, who, in the Winter of 1849-'50, erected, at what is now the upper portion of the town, a hotel and trading post, called the "Old Mud Springs House." As early as 1851 there were constructed upon or near Matheney's Creek, five steam quartz mills, at a cost of from $15,000 to $40,000 each. Four large mills were constructed on Logtown Creek the year following, and others in different directions in the vicinity; taken together they have furnished employment for about five hundred laborers. Many of these mills have yielded to the proprietors fabulous returns. The town, although located more from accident than design, is situated in the midst of wide, undulating valleys, of deep and productive vegetable mould, already taken up and improved as farms, from which are produced yearly vast quantities of cereals, hay and stock; also the soil and climate is particularly adapted to the growth of the grape and orchards. It is also the junction of the Sacramento and the road leading to Drytown, Jackson, Mokelumne Hill, Stockton and Sonora—the survey of the great trunk railroad stretching from San Francisco and Sacramento, via Placerville, to the Atlantic States, passes through the town—also a turnpike road, upon a grade of not more than two and a-half degrees, built at a cost of fifteen thousand dollars, now runs between the town of El Dorado and Placerville. The number of grape vines already planted in this vicinity, the most of which are now bearing, amounts to about two hundred thousand, and the number of fruit trees to one hundred thousand. There are twenty stone and brick fire-proof stores, some of which, in costliness and elegance, are not surpassed by any in the County. There is also a line of semi-daily stages running to Placerville, aside from the daily line running into this place from Sacramento, Drytown, Jackson, etc., to Carson Valley, and overland to St. Joseph.

The vineyards of Mr. W. H. Pavey and J. M. B. Wetherwax have this year produced hundreds of gallons of wine, of the richest and most delicious aroma, and in body and quality not surpassed by any foreign importation. G. G. Blanchard, Esq., is cultivating a vineyard of about fifty acres, that, from the quality of the vine, they being mostly of foreign varieties, and the attention which the proprietor is bestowing upon it, bids fair to be the finest vineyard in the County. The enterprise of the merchants has contributed much to the growth, character and importance of the place. Messrs. Jackson, McCord and J. W. Jackson stand prominent amongst them. The St. Stephen's Parish of the Episcopal Church is located here—its Pastor, Mr. Pierce holds service twice a month. The Methodist Church also has services on each Sunday. There is also a school house, that in point of convenience, accommodation and costliness, is not excelled in the county, with a school inferior to none, and perhaps superior to any in the State. The Masons have a hall, two stories high, 30x50 feet, built of brick, nearly completed, the lower story is intended for a store and the upper part for a lodge hall. In the Winter of 1855 the Town was incorporated under its present name of El Dorado, by which it has been known ever since. There are three Attorneys, Geo. G. Blanchard, Chas. Meredith and Moses Tebbs; three Physicians, Dr. M. D. Hinman, Dr. L. Marotte and Dr. Bayliss. There is a branch of Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express office, and a telegraph office, with James McCormick, Esq., agent and operator. The lumber yards of S. & J. Fleming & Co., and Rogers & Atwood add much to the business of the place. Messrs. Fleming making their yard a depot for the lumber of their two extensive saw mills above Pleasant Valley, on the Carson Valley road. El Dorado presents every appearance and possesses every element of permanency and importance, and will undoubtedly continue to grow and prosper with the rest of the County.

HISTORY OF GEORGETOWN.

THE TOWN OF GEORGETOWN is situated upon the beautiful high ground on the dividing ridge between the South and Middle Forks of the American River, about ten miles from the former and four miles from the latter. It was first settled in August, 1849, in a narrow ravine about one-eighth of a mile from its present location. In July, 1852, the whole of the business portion of the town was swept away by fire, after which event the town was rebuilt where it now stands. In July, 1856, another disastrous fire occurred, which destroyed most of the business houses, and many dwellings. Again, in 1858, a fire occurred, which swept off about one-half of the business places. Since that time no fires of any considerable importance have occurred.

This village has now a population of about 500, among whom are many families. Pretty cottages, surrounded with pleasant gardens, vines, fruit and shade trees, to be seen in every direction, give it a pleasant and prosperous appearance, convincing the most casual observer that its inhabitants have full confidence in its permanence. Of public buildings, it contains one Church, (Catholic,) one Theater, a School House, and Town Hall. The Methodist denomination hold service regularly, every Sabbath, in the Town Hall. The Catholics have service on the first Sabbath of each month. There is a District School taught regularly, with an attendance of from thirty to forty pupils. There are a large number of merchants, representing almost every department of trade, who seem to be doing well; one Banking House and Express Office, three Hotels, two Livery and Sale Stables, Wagon and Blacksmith Shops, one Harness and Saddlery Shop, one Steam Saw Mill and one Water Saw Mill, about two miles from the town. From the first settlement of this place, it has been noted for its rich mines. Many of the gulches about here have yielded almost fabulous amounts to their fortunate workers. There seems a greater degree of lasting permanence to the mines about here than in most placer diggings, and they seem likely to afford profitable employment for many years to the patient, enterprising miner. The miners and agriculturalists are mostly supplied with water from "The Pilot Creek Water Co.," an incorporation: Trustees, E. H. Watson, W. H. Stone, D. C. McKenney; President, D. C. McKenney; Secretary and Treasurer, W. H. Stone; Superintendent, E. H. Watson. The ditches of this company are about fifty miles in length, and furnish water all the season, supplying miners as low down as Kelsey and Wild Goose Flat, and intermediate places.

Agriculture, in the vicinity of Georgetown, has attained an importance worthy of notice. "As late as 1856, the lands about here were regarded as barren and worthless. The gold mines and the timber were supposed to be all that was valuable. A few experiments, conducted on a limited scale, however, led to the belief that something might be done in regard to agriculture. The small efforts at raising garden vegetables were in many cases successful, and the very few peach and apple trees planted by the miners seemed to grow very well. In 1857-'8 a number of small orchards in the vicinity of the town, and an extensive nursery, were started. These have all done remarkably well, and the disposition to plant fruit trees has become very general. The red land of this district seems adapted, in a pre-eminent degree, to the growth of the apple and the grape, while the peach tree is less vigorous and productive than upon lower and richer lands. As we ascend the sides of the mountain there is a general improvement in the quality of all fruits, so far up as the trees grow vigorously, and the fruit has time to ripen. Here, at an elevation of 2,500 feet above tide-water, the best varieties of the apple of New England, New York, and the North-western States come to great perfection, and will keep as long as in the vicinity of New York and Boston; while, at the same time, the most delicate grapes of Portugal and Italy are perfectly hardy, and ripen their fruit in the greatest perfection. Good raisins have been made here from such grapes.

"Among all the varied climates of California, there are few that can claim precedence over Georgetown. Being on a dividing ridge, it is seldom visited by untimely frosts—the temperature rarely sinking below 30° in Winter or rising above 90° in Summer. The atmosphere is so clear and dry that the mildew or the rot can never visit the grape or the apple, and, to crown all, there is an abundance of clear, pure water, winding along the very summit of the country, coming direct from the perennial fountains which are fed by the snowy summits to the eastward." To show the interest taken in the raising of hay and grain, the planting of orchards and vineyards, it is only necessary to ride about a circuit of a few miles in this locality to be satisfied that those pursuits will soon become, if not already, the predominant interest in this neighborhood. We name those most prominent: E. Harkness & Son, W. H. Pratt, Mr. Hotchkiss, A. Lee, Holmes & Porter, Sands Bros., D. B. Craig, J. F. Richardson, Mrs. Carlock, Thompson & McConnell, J. Abbee, Bixby & Palmer, and S. P. Nye. Wheat has been raised in small lots, sufficient to prove that it can be cultivated with success. The clay lands in some of the valleys around here have produced a very superior quality of wheat. We took great pleasure in rambling over the fruit grounds of Messrs. E. Harkness & Son, half a mile east of Georgetown, and think them worthy of special notice and commendation. Few more enthusiastic cultivators can be found than the elder Harkness, who informs us he has devoted a long life to the cultivation of fruit, and raising fruit trees for sale. Their collection of varieties was brought from Illinois in 1857, and they have been gradually extending their orchards every season since that time. The amount of labor they expend in planting a single tree would astonish most persons. Their terraces along the steep side hills are cut with great labor and with perfect regularity, falling one inch in ten feet, so as to give a gentle flow to water for irrigation. Large excavations are made for each tree, and the hole filled with fine surface soil—about five cubic yards of earth are handled by the spade in planting each tree. Although this system is very expensive in the first instance, it is believed to be the most economical in the end, as it renders irrigation cheap and easy ever after. They have a great variety of various kinds of fruit trees, and several varieties of grapes, all of which have every appearance of a thrifty, healthy growth, and give fine promise of in a few years returning to them large rewards for their money and labor.

A company is now organizing for building of a road, the coming season, from this place to Washoe which, it is confidently expected, will materially increase the business of the town. On a survey of the present situation and future prospects of this place, we are led to believe that there are but few towns that have more to encourage them to hope for a healthy rapid growth than this beautiful mountain town.

HISTORY OF COLOMA.

THE TOWN OF COLOMA has obtained a world-wide notoriety, from its having been the place where gold was first discovered in this State, by the American people. One cannot view this valley, from any of its surrounding hills, without feeling that the "glittering dust" which we are all striving to obtain, was discovered in a most beautiful place. Neither can we pass from point to point and view the work of those who only sought for golden treasures, and then left, leaving an upturned and defaced surface as the only evidence of their presence, without feeling a sense of relief as we turn and witness the many comfortable and beautiful homes to be seen all around, upon the hill sides, and nestling in the quiet valleys about, showing evidences of civilization and refinement on every side. It is gratifying to know that if the gold-seeker and his occupation should pass away from this locality, that there is every probability that it will become as much renowned for its fine varieties of fruit, its extensive vineyards, its rich and delicious wines, and superior brandies, as for its having been the place where gold was first discovered. This place has so far escaped the ravages of a general conflagration; in that respect, being more fortunate than most towns in California. In other respects it has had its prosperous and its adverse times. On the first organization of El Dorado county, it was made the shire-town, and so remained for several years. It supported a large population and did a great business, and for a long time remained the principal place in the county. After the removal of the county seat, and the decline of mining operations in its vicinity, its prominence as a place of business began to decline, until, at this time, it is more noted for its good society, handsome family residences, its churches and schools, than for the extent of its business. It seems probable that at this time it has reached its lowest ebb, and that it will now continue to advance, as new channels of business are prosecuted and developed, until it will far surpass all former greatness.

We think it was in this place that the plan of obtaining water, for mining purposes, by artificial means, was first put into successful operation. The first ditch for mining purposes was known as the El Dorado Ditch, on the south bank of the river, and six miles in extent. This property paid large dividends to its owners, and induced the construction of many more for the same objects—the principal ones being the Hollingsworth & Co. Ditch, on the north bank of the river; the Coloma Canal, also on the north bank of the river; the Shanghae Ditch, upon the south bank; the Williams Ditch, upon the north bank; the Greenhorn Ditch, upon the south bank, and the U. S. M. Ditch, upon the north bank of the river,—the last being the largest of any. It is said all of these ditches were profitable investments to their owners, and of immense benefit to the miners and agriculturalists in this vicinity.

Upon the decline of mining operations in this locality many persons engaged in the business of planting orchards and vineyards, the pleasing result of which is seen in the many beautiful homes which adorn this pleasant valley. Among the most noted gardens and orchards upon the north side of the river may be mentioned those of Messrs. E. Woodruff and A. A. Van Guelder—the latter with a foresight which does him much credit, was one of the first to engage in the planting and raising of a variety of fruit and grapes.

the result attained has far exceeded the expectations of the most sanguine. The principal fruit growers upon the south side of the river are Henry Mahler, Jonas Wilder, Henry Pierce, Edward Delory, Hon. T. H. Williams, H. Hawley, John Alhoff, J. G. Vanderheyden, John Crocker and Mrs. C. M. Robertson; many of these also pay considerable attention to the planting of vineyards and manufacture of wine. Among those who devote their principal attention to vine growing and the manufacture of wine and brandy, are Martin Alhoff, Jonas Wilder, and Mrs. C. M. Robertson, who have already acquired a reputation which places them in the front rank among those capable of judging of their merits. If any preference is given to either, it would be to Martin Alhoff for his wines, and to Mrs. Robertson for her very superior brandy. Mr. J. W. Marshall, renowned for having been the first discoverer of gold at this place, on the 19th of January 1848, has planted upon the hill sides near this place an extensive vineyard of choice varieties, which promises to return him a rich reward for his labors.

Mr. Robert Chalmers may be quoted, not only as a model landlord, but as the model farmer of this place, as, in addition to quite an extensive orchard and garden, he has the best breed of hogs, the best blooded stock, and the largest field in grain of any farmer in this locality. This place has a Lodge of Masons and one of Odd Fellows. Three quite good church buildings, occupied by M. E. Church, the Episcopalian Church and the Catholic Church.
